

For Immediate Release

November 20, 2009

FWBBC Presents 'Christmas on Richland'

NASHVILLE, TN—Free Will Baptist Bible College will present its annual “Christmas on Richland” musical event Friday, December 4 on campus at 7:30 p.m. in Memorial Auditorium (3607 Richland Avenue), according to Dr. James Stevens, chairman of the Music Department. This year the Choral Union and an 18-piece orchestra will perform the Christmas portion of Handel’s “Messiah” and present a Carol Sing.

Admission to “Christmas on Richland” is free. The public is invited to join with the Free Will Baptist Bible College family of students, faculty, and staff for the annual concert.

The one-hour presentation will be under the direction of Mr. Mark Lancaster, adjunct faculty member of voice, music, and choral at FWBBC. Mr. Lancaster is minister of music at Inglewood Baptist Church in Nashville.

Every year, as part of the Sarah Lacey Nicholas Concert Series, the FWBBC Music Department, the college family, and the community unite in “Christmas on Richland” to celebrate the beginning of the Christmas season.