The Lady Flames were never in it as top-ranked Kentucky Christian University defeated FWBBC 95-31.

The out-sized Flames suffered a big blow when their inside threat, Taylor Ford, went down with an injury three minutes into the game.

“When Taylor went down, I had to change everything, and we didn’t adjust,” said Coach Larry Bryan. “I had to put players in different positions, and that definitely had an impact on our performance.”

Loni Walser and Jaclyn Martin led the team in scoring with 12 points each. Martin also led the team in rebounds with six.

It didn’t get any easier for the Lady Flames on Saturday as third-ranked Ohio Christian University came to Picirilli Activity Center. FWBBC was without starting forward, Taylor Ford, who was injured Friday night. Then, to make matters worse, point guard Katie Bryan went down with an injury.

FWBBC had a better offensive game as they knocked down a few more shots than they did the previous night.

“These are the two toughest teams we face,” said Coach Larry Bryan. “They have a lot of talent and they play hard. I thought our girls worked hard, and I am pleased with that.”

Loni Walser led the Lady Flames with 22 points. Jaclyn Martin had seven rebounds.
