Visiting High School Seniors Praise FWBBC Hospitality

NASHVILLE, TN—Twenty-four students from eight states attended the fall 2011 Senior Days on September 29-30 at Free Will Baptist Bible College, giving high marks to FWBBC student, faculty, and staff for the warm campus-wide hospitality, according to Rusty Campbell, director of enrollment services. Thirteen students came from Tennessee and three from Michigan. Others included: Alabama (1), Arkansas (2), Florida (2), Illinois (1), Ohio (1), and West Virginia (1).

Mr. Campbell said, “Seventy-five percent of the students who attended indicated that because of the Senior Days event they are more interested in FWBBC than before they came. We changed up the schedule to give visiting students a more hands-on campus experience. We added a panel discussion with a Q&A involving representatives from resident life, athletics, Christian service, music, drama, the Student Council, and Global Missions Fellowship.”

The visiting seniors toured the campus, attended classes, worshipped in chapel, participated in a Thursday evening friends-and-food-fest hosted by the Student Council, and enjoyed a Friday breakfast with Provost Greg Kettelman. Each senior had a personal guide for the weekend as they moved about the campus. Friday activities included a panel discussion about life as an FWBBC student, an afternoon faculty reception, and a closing session followed by a Lady Flames volleyball game.

Verbal commendations for the two-day Senior Days event came from visiting students and parents. One student said, “Everything was really great! I enjoyed talking with the students and faculty.” A first-time-on-campus parent said, “We had heard this was a good school, but now that we are here and see what goes on, we are really impressed. I think FWBBC is the place we want our child to attend.”

The next Senior Days is set for February 2-3, 2012. For more information, contact the Enrollment Management Office at recruit@fwbbc.edu.
