

Lady Flames Come Up Short

Appalachian Bible College	43
Free Will Baptist Bible College	34

The Lady Flames started out with a hot hand, but couldn't maintain it and dropped a 43-34 decision to Appalachian Bible College at Picirilli Activity Center on Saturday.

FWBBC took a commanding lead early in the game with a 13-2 run. But the Warriors chipped away at the lead and trailed by one point going at intermission, 15-14.

In the second half, the Lady Flames' scoring didn't get any better, while the visiting Warriors doubled their first-half output and pulled away for the nine-point win.

"We are still adjusting to our new roles," said Coach Larry Bryan. "We put in a solid effort, but you don't win many ball games shooting 23% from the floor."

Jaclyn Martin had a double-double to lead FWBBC, with 15 points and 12 rebounds. Loni Walser had a career-high 18 rebounds.
